

Contents

1.	Introduction	1
	Textiles and Identity	2
	The Research	4
	Terminology: Tai, Tai Yai, or Shan	5
2.	Pre-migration: Tai Yai in Burma	7
	Tai Yai History	7
	Establishment of the Union of Burma	10
	The Rise of Shan Insurgency Groups	11
3.	Negotiating Tai Yai Identity in Thailand	15
	Tai Yai Settlements in Thailand	15
	Khun Sa	17
	Khun Sa and Huai Hin Teak (Ban Thoed Thai)	18
	Relationship of Khun Sa and the State of Thailand	19
	1982 and the Beginning of the Post-Khun Sa Era	21
	The Beginning of Thai-ization	22
	Thai-ization	22
	Thai National Policies on Ethnic Groups	23
	The Beginning of Shan-ization	27
	Shan-ization	28
	Tai Num and Tai Anurak , Tai Cultural Revitalization Groups	28
4.	Dress and Tai Yai Identity	31
	Early Accounts of Dress in the Shan States of Burma	31
	Tai Mao/Tai Neua	32
	Tai Long	33
	Tai Ngan	34
	Tai Khuen	35
	Tai Lue	36
	Construction of a Pan-Tai Yai Identity	36
	The Older Age Group: Maintaining Traditions	37
	Mature Adults: Ethnic Identity and the Thai-ization Period	38
	Young Adults: Thai-ization	39
	Youths: Shan-ization	39
	Weaving and the Housewives Association (Klum Mae Ban)	41
	Independent Weavers	44
	Tai Festivals	46

5. Conclusion	51
Epilogue	52
Color Plates	56
References	137
Index	141

List of Maps

1. Map of Shan State and Northern Thailand	xiv
2. Map of Amphoe Fah Luang	xv
3. Map of Tambon Thoed Thai	xvi