

INVESTIGATING THE EFFECT OF AN ENGLISH IMMERSION PROGRAM ON ADULT STUDENTS' BELIEFS ABOUT
LANGUAGE LEARNING

Mark Lyon

Presented to the Payap University in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of
MASTER OF ARTS IN TEACHING ENGLISH TO SPEAKERS OF OTHER LANGUAGES

Faculty of Arts

Payap University

March 2009

Title: Investigating the Effect of an English Immersion Program on Adult Students' Beliefs about Language Learning.

Researcher: Mark Lyon

Degree: Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

Main Advisor: Dr. Jonathan Leather

The members of the Committee approve this master's thesis

(Aj. Malee Kongwannit)
Dean of the Faculty of Arts

The members of the Committee:

1. Wanida Penkingarn Committee Chair

(Assistant Professor Dr. Wanida Penkingarn)

2. Pearl Wattanakul Committee Member

(Dr. Pearl Wattanakul)

3. Jonathan Leather Committee Member

(Associate Professor Dr. Jonathan Leather)

Approval Date: March 4, 2009

copyright© Mark Lyon Payap University
All Rights Reserved

PAYAP UNIVERSITY

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I'd like to thank my thesis advisor, Dr. Jonathan Leather, for his insights into conducting my research and writing this report. I'd also like to thank my other professors at Payap University-- Ajarn Philip, Ajarn Richards, Dr. Pearl, Dr. Gasigitamarong, and Dr. Mary Wong – for providing an education that surpassed my expectations, blending their practical experience with their research expertise. I'd like to thank my father for reading drafts of my thesis and providing advice and encouragement even though TESOL isn't his field. Also my wife Josephine and my son MJ for providing a home environment that was conducive to my studies. My friends Francis Chow, Ler Blute Po, and Mu Thur Dee for the various favors they performed. Lastly, I'd like to thank all the instructors and students at Paradise English Institute for allowing me to use them as my subjects.