ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This special project could not have been written without the help of a great many people. It is not possible to name them all; however, acknowledgement of the assistance of a special few needs to be expressed.

First of all, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, who not only showed me that everything is possible with Him but also who has given me joy throughout this research.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my dear supervisor, Dr. Imelda Y. Flores, Visiting Professor from Silliman University, Philippines, who was extremely generous to me with her precious time, valuable guidance, thoughtful instruction, endless patience and constant encouragement.

I would like to express my special thanks to Dr. Pearl Wattanakul, Head of TEFL Department, not only for her pinpointing the focus of my paper on "meaningful content" but also for her constructive suggestions, for her understanding and trust in me.

I am very grateful to Mrs. Janet Voettiner who has always supported me with her encouraging words and with her insightful comments.

I am also thankful to Ms. Patricia Henry, a senior lecturer at Deakin University, introducing me to the Australian Genre-Based Approach during my study in Melbourne.

I wish to express my words of thanks to Dr. Wilai, Miss Wanda Jennings, Miss Annette George, and Miss Karen Block for their constant prayers and comments on my language use.

This project would never have been possible without six Burmese Grade 7 students and their English teacher who helped me in collecting my data.

Once again thanks must be expressed to the members of Applied Linguistics Training Program, Summer Institute of Linguistics in Chiangmai for their help in computer related areas.

I would like to express my appreciation for the support and help of the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia, Payap University International Program, and the Myanmar Christian Council of Churches throughout my study at Payap University.

My deepest thanks go to my husband, my four children, my mother and my siblings who have always encouraged me to do my best for my country, for my people, and for my Lord.
