ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to express my gratitude to Dr. Boonthong Poocharoen, president of Payap University, for giving me the opportunity to study for my Masters Degree in the Linguistics Department. I would also like to thank my advisor Ajarn P. David Jeffery, who always encouraged me in everything I have done, even when I was facing many problems. Thanks for his valuable guidance, encouragement and wisdom. I am also grateful to Assistant Prof. Dr. Thomas M. Tehan, my thesis supervisor, and Ajarn William Hanna, for reading through my thesis and for their valuable suggestions, which have added much to the final draft.

I also wish to thank all the Yong villagers for their cooperation which they gave me during my fieldwork, and without whose generous help my research would not have been possible.

I would like to express my gratitude to my teachers in the English and Linguistics Departments, who not only taught me valuable knowledge but also how to behave. All that they gave me during my studies is a beautiful memory for me.

Thanks to my close friend, Aum, and all my friends in the Linguistics Department for their support and encouragement in writing this thesis.

I am extremely grateful to my family, my father, mother and older brother for their love, support and encouragement. Thanks to my special friend, Tun, for your care and understanding.
